

ICC Italia Conference

How we imagine the bank of tomorrow

Banking seen through the glasses of blockchain and digital identity

Rome, 10 November 2016

h. 9.00 - 13.30

The workshop is an opportunity to exchange views on the challenges and opportunities ahead the digitalization in the banking sector.

The half-day conference will be split in two panel sessions, dedicated to two synergic topics: blockchain and digital identity.

The first session will explore the potential of the blockchain technology applied to the financial sector: the discussion will be based on the analysis of use cases provided by the panelists, with the aim to highlight any critical issues and gaps at different levels, as well as to provide the audience with valuable business suggestions.

The second session will focus on digital identity: starting from the opportunities that this represents for the banking sector, the panelists will illustrate the potential impact of the combination of blockchain and digital identity on the financial services and the related value chain, as well as on banks' internal processes.
